Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5,7-12 and 14-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gibson 2,883,940.

Gibson discloses a gas/liquid separator (fig. 1). The separator is part of a tubing string 13 for use in a well. A tubular outer conduit 31 has a lower inlet 48 for introducing gas and liquid. The outer conduit has an upper outlet 33 to allow fluids to pass to the exterior of the outer conduit. A tubular inner conduit 20 is disposed within the interior of the outer conduit. An inlet 53 introduces liquids discharged from the outer conduit into the flow passage of the inner conduit. The inner and outer conduits are rigidly joined together at their lower ends. An adapter 18 engages the inner and outer conduits at the other end of the conduits. The adapter prevents lateral movement but allows relative longitudinal movement between the inner and outer conduits regardless of how the force is applied (i. e. Either compression or tension). As to claims 2 and 9, means 22 provides sealing engagement between the inner and outer conduits. As to claims 3 and 10, means 22 is a seal. As to claims 4 and 11, means 41 is a coupler having an outer conduit port 48 and an inner conduit port 53 that are isolated from one another. As to claims 5 and 12, the outer conduit has threads on both ends for engagement with the tubing string. As to claims 7 and 14, both the inner and outer conduits are threaded for engagement with the coupler 41. The coupler having inlets 48 and 53 that are not in communication with one another. As to claim 8, a packer 50 is provided. As to method claim 15, fluids are introduced through the packer to the outer conduit and out openings 33. The gas flowing upwardly and the oil flowing to inlet 53 where it is produced to the surface. As to claim 16, the tubing string is attached at the surface and it is believed inherent that tension will be continuously applied to the tubing string.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6 and 13 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to William P. Neuder whose telephone number is 571-272-7032. The examiner can normally be reached on Tuesday through Friday.
